A woman diagnosed with stage 4 breast cancer a little over two years ago is making quite an impression on those who come into contact with her. Despite the numerous drug treatments, Dulcie Osmond of Burin Bay Arm is one of the most optimistic and happy persons you could imagine. She spoke at the Canadian Cancer Society's "Dream Team" event at the Fluvarium this week. The Dream Team, which consists of lawyer Paul Dicks of Benson

Myles, Opposition House Leader Yvonne Jones, Jim Burton of ReMax Plus Realty, Felix Loveless of Calco Homes and Junior Burton of Windsor Pharmacy, has raised $43,000 so far to help the society with its programs and services, including Daffodil House. Osmond says Daffodil House was a place where she has stayed during her chemo treatments. She says it's like being among family.
